CIRCUIT COURT

Reconvened Yesterday After One-Day Recess—Several Cases Dismissed.

After a day's lay-off the Mason Circuit Court reconvened yesterday morning, the following cases being disposed of:

On motion of the plaintiff, the suit of Florence Starrett against Elijah Starrett, for divorce, was dismissed. On motion of the Commonwealth against George Dale, indicted for bringing intoxicating liquor into local option territory, was dismissed.

On motion of the attorney for the plaintiff, the suit of Lawrence Williams against Jesse Calvert, for damages, was dismissed.

The damage suits of Ina Carpenter against the L. & N. Railroad and Frank Carpenter against the L. & N. Railroad were dismissed, the cases having been settled out of court.

After hearing all the evidence in the case of R. L. Fox against Dr. Leslie Brand, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant. Mr. Fox asked damages for injuries to his horse alleged to have been struck by Dr. Brand's automobile.

MORE THAN 2,000 BELIEVED KILLED AT HALIFAX

EXPLOSION OF MUNITION LADEN SHIP WRECKED CITY.

Buildings Which Escape Force of Blast Are Afterwards Destroyed By Fire Which Sweeps Over City.

Halifax, N. C., December 7.—With the toll of dead steadily mounting it was believed early this morning that more than 2,000 persons perished in the explosion and fire which followed the collision yesterday morning in Halifax harbor between a munitions laden French ship and another vessel loaded with supplies for the Belgian relief commission.

The disaster which has plunged the Dominion into mourning probably will rank as the most fearful that ever occurred on the American continent. Residents of Halifax and thousands of volunteer relief workers who have come into the city have been almost dazed at the extent of the horror.

Temporary morgues have been established in many buildings to which a steady procession of vehicles of all kinds have been carrying for hours the bodies of men, women and children. Most of them were so charred that they were unrecognizable. Thousands of persons seeking refuge of relatives and friends have passed by the long, silent rows, attempting, by the flickering light of lamps and lanterns, to identify the ones they sought.

Virtually every building in the city which could be converted into a hospital is filled with wounded, many of them so desperately injured, that there is no hope of their recovery. Scores already have died in these temporary hospitals. An ever-increasing number is being taken from the completely devastated Richmond district to the relief stations. An army of rescue workers is searching among the ruins for bodies and for those who survived amidst the wreckage left by the explosion and fire.

The city was in darkness tonight except for the flames from the fires still burning in the wrecked buildings in the north end. The electric light and gas plants have been virtually destroyed and the only lights available are kerosene lamps. They furnished the illumination by means of which surgeons and doctors toiled heroically throughout the night caring for the injured.

Soldiers, sailors and police patrolled the streets tonight and upon them fell the major portion of the burden of searching among the ruins for the dead and wounded. The Canadians were assisted in this work from an American warship in the harbor.

The flame-swept area covers approximately two and one-half square miles. It begins as what is known as the North Street Bridge, extending north to Mer 8 on the Richmond water front and back to a point parallel with Golden street. Nothing has been left standing in this section of the city. Only a pile of smoldering ruins marks the spot where the great building of the American Sugar Refining Company stood. The drydock and all the buildings which surrounded it were destroyed. The Richmond school that housed hundreds of children was demolished and it is reported only three escaped.

Canadian officers who have seen long service in France characterize the catastrophe as "the most fearful which has befallen any city in the world."

DEATH OF WILLIAM LEACH

Mr. William Leach, aged 44 years, died at his home in Sardis yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, having been ill for the past three weeks with pneumonia. Mr. Leach was a splendid Christian gentleman and well liked by a large number of friends and acquaintances. He is survived by two sisters, with whom he resided. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock from the Sardis M. E. Church, South. Interment in the Shannon cemetery.

INJURED AT THE DAM

Alex Reed, a young man employed at the government dam, was painfully injured yesterday about noon when one of his feet was mashed by being caught in the cogs of a derrick engine. He was given medical attention and is now doing nicely. Although his injury is quite painful it is not thought to be serious.

CO-OPERATION

Of Maysville Business Men in Proposed Steamboat Corporation Is Asked by Prominent Huntington Business Men.

In speaking of the proposed new boat line to operate on the Ohio river, Mr. H. R. Wyllie, president of the H. R. Wyllie China Company, of Huntington, W. Va., in a letter to the Maysville Chamber of Commerce, says in part:

"The plan is to organize a company with sufficient capital to operate a line of freight boats, thereby securing better service in the way of transportation than is to be had at the present time from the railroads, which are now very badly congested, with prospects of the condition being still worse. The idea of a line of freight boats is to relieve this situation."

"At the solicitation of the cities and towns on the Ohio river, the government has spent immense sums of money on the locks and dam system now built and under construction, and it is not only patriotic and reasonable that we should take advantage of the excellent shipping facilities afforded by the Ohio river. The business men of Huntington are interested because it takes from two to three weeks to get a freight shipment out of Cincinnati and at least four weeks out of Pittsburgh, and all shipments in the Wheeling district via rail in this direction are embargoed. The advantage of a good line of boats would be that we would get quick and efficient service. The plan is to form a company with sufficient capital to own and operate a line of freight boats on the Ohio river, with a view of the company owning its own wharves or terminals, and possibly with a motor-truck delivery system to be operated by the wharfmaster, so that river shipments would be delivered direct to your place of business. There is no question but that river shipments are cheaper than rail, and an organization of this kind would be of great benefit to the Ohio Valley."

"The plan is to have the stock of the company widely distributed; allotting to each town along the river a certain amount of stock to be purchased by its shippers, based upon the approximate tonnage that each town would furnish. By having a large number of stockholders interested in the company (all of whom being shippers) a co-operative arrangement will be effected that will insure to the advantage of all concerned."

"Would like for you to put this matter before your Board of Trade at your very earliest opportunity and let me have an expression from you on the matter. If there is sufficient interest shown, it is the purpose to have a joint meeting with representatives from all the towns along the river between Parkersburg and Cincinnati, with a view of taking action on the proposition and making it a success."

A long-felt want has been supplied in "Quids," the clean, compact form of scrap tobacco. For sale exclusively by Jake Caproni.

CHRISTMAS CHEER CLUB

Started to Make the Boys Happy at Camp Zachary Taylor — Santa Claus Riding By Airplane—$22.50 Subscribed This Morning.

In co-operation with the Louisville Courier-Journal, the Public Ledger has for several days been asking for contributions to fund to furnish Christmas cheer to the boys at Camp Taylor.

When Santa Claus goes to Camp Zachary Taylor in Louisville Christmas eve, 1917, he will go dressed in khaki. Santa Claus has become quite a modern old gentleman and he also has libbed some of the military spirit of the present world upheaval, for he has discarded the old sleigh and reindeer for the more up-to-date military flying machine. Santa Claus will begin his flight from the top of the Courier-Journal building in Louisville at 6:30 o'clock Christmas eve and a few minutes later will descend at Camp Zachary Taylor and begin his task of distributing gifts to the boys under Maj. Gen. Harry C. Hale.

Santa Claus will thus be able to claim the honor of being the first to actually go "over the top" in America.

It seems certain that Santa Claus will be greeted this year by the most enthusiastic reception ever accorded him. It will be the first time in his history that he appeared so early in the evening. It will be the first time he has appeared in khaki; it will be the first time he has traveled in an airplane, and it will be the first time that his entry into and city has been given the official recognition and formality of a National Government reception.

The following contributions to this fund were received by the Ledger this morning:

J. Barbour Russell	5.00
Public Ledger	5.00
Mrs. M. C. Russell	2.50
Mrs. J. Barbour Russell	2.50
Thomas M. Russell	2.50
Mrs. J. W. Fitzgerald	1.00
J. Barbour Russell, Jr.	1.00
C. D. Russell	1.00
Milton C. Russell	1.00
Elvrene Russell	1.00

Total $22.50

Send all contributions to the Public Ledger and they will in turn be sent to the Louisville Courier-Journal.

MISSOURI CLUBS FOR WAR RUMORS

Some one has suggested that the names of rumor-mongers who are spreading the underhanded pro-German propaganda in the form of idle gossip be publicly posted as members of "War Ananias Clubs." Such publicity might shame them into a realization of some of the obligations of true patriotism. And it would probably have a wholesome effect in checking the spread of false tales of disaster and mismanagement and treason that have been going the rounds.

It is incomprehensible that so many apparently clear-thinking people, business men and women who consider themselves loyal Americans, really believe and pass on to others the tales as they come from mouth to mouth. There is too little questioning of the sources of these mischievous stories. The government has denied many of them specifically and shown them up as enemy propaganda. And still a credulous public swallows the next ones as fast as they come along.

The kindest thing that can be said of patriots who let themselves be made dupes of Germany in this way is that they are thoughtless. But this is no time for criminal carelessness in regard to the things that come and go in the form of gossip. The patriot whose loyalty is sincere will refuse to believe wild rumors. And if he is so credulous as to half believe them, he will consider it his duty to demand absolute proof and to refuse to pass on to others any stories with doubtful background and harmful potentialities.

An Ananias club for war gossips isn't enough. How about a War Rumor Missouri Club with a membership including every loyal citizen? A little more of the "show me" attitude and a good deal less "easy mark" credulity would be very much to the point in choking to death this particular phase of Prussian warfare.

WAR AND POLITICS

"One great effect of the present war, at home, will be the cleaning up of politics," says Richard H. Dana of Boston, president of the National Civil Service Reform League.

"The sacrifices Americans will have to make in this war," he explains, "will teach the new conception of the debt they owe to their country. The close of the war will see a great influx of trained men into the field of public service, municipal, state and national."

It might be said that the results of the recent fall election were not altogether in harmony with this view. Several cities, notably New York, showed an unexpected political relapse. But that need not deter us from accepting Mr. Dana's hopeful view. As yet we have hardly begun to make the sacrifices which are expected to lead to purer politics and more disinterested public service.

Already, however, there are many signs of the new spirit. Though our municipal and state governments have as yet been little affected, the national government is full of notable and inspiring examples.

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that the bulk of our war preparations are in the hands not of politicians, not of regular public officials of any sort, but of volunteers from private life—business and professional men who are giving the best that is in them to their country, without thought of compensation. If this new attitude continues after the war, it will surely work a revolution in our public affairs.

PRISONERS' TESTIMONY

From Germany comes an interesting account of the information obtained from the first Americans captured as prisoners of war. Our men were immediately subjected to the usual inquisition, designed to extract information valuable to their captors. It appears that the matter of primary interest to the Germans in this case was the opinion of the American army as to why it was fighting. Three prisoners, when asked why we entered the war, are said to have given the following reasons:

One replied that we had been driven to war by German's submarine attacks.

Another explained that we had gone to war because we believed Germany had wronged Belgium.

A third said that we wanted to help France because of gratitude for what Lafayette had done for us.

All of these statements were true, but none represented more than a small part of the truth. The prisoners are credited with rare tact in replying with apparent candor and honesty, in a way to disarm their inquisitors, and refraining from blurting out the whole disagreeable truth.

It would hardly have done to tell those Prussian officers to their faces precisely what Americans think of them and the brutal and murderous system they represent. The time for that will come later.

BIG EVENTS

It is always hard to appreciate the significance of events when one is close to them. It may be many years before we get the full import of things that are occurring now in the United States. It is altogether possible that we understand what is going on in Europe better than what is going on here at home.

When we finally obtain the perspective that time brings, we may decide that the adoption of universal military service was a greater victory for democracy than the conquest of the U-boats; that the yielding of our giant trusts to government control was a bigger thing than the collapse of Russia, and a gain amply compensating for that tragedy; that the triumph of intelligent team-work shown in our production of merchant ships, air fleets and army trucks meant more than the Austro-German drive into Italy; that the pooling of our big railroad systems was a greater victory than Gen. Byng's smash at Cambrai; that, in short, the spiritual and economic changes now taking place in the United States are probably THE big things of the war, so far as we are concerned—immensely more important than any mere feats of arms by our allies or ourselves.

NOT IMPOSSIBLE

One of the principal troubles with this war is that the Germans know what is going on in our country rather more thoroughly than we do ourselves.

Russia's dogs of war are not half so ruthless as the dogs in her civil managers.—Boston Herald.

475 GRADUATE NURSES NEEDED

Washington, December 5.—Four hundred and seventy-five graduate nurses for "immediate and urgent army service" are needed before December 12, it was announced today, and in the course of the next year at least 20,000 will be required in army hospitals in this country and Europe.

"Of the total number of graduate nurses in this country approximately 80,000" said a statement of Miss Dora E. Thompson, superintendent of the army nurse corps, "only 3500 have so far been assigned to duty in the army service and of this number 1,500 are in France. We should have on file the names of thousands of nurses who could respond to a call on short notice."

Graduate nurses between the ages of 21 and 45 who pass the required physical and mental tests will be accepted. Traveling expenses are paid by the War Department and army nurses assigned to duty at military hospitals are provided with quarters and subsistence and are paid $50 per month, with $10 additional for foreign service. Nurses who prefer not to have service abroad, it was announced, will have their preferences respected.

"The army nurse corps," Miss Thompson said, "will supply personnel to about one hundred large hospitals in this country, each with 65 nurses; to many base hospitals abroad, each with 100 nurses and to hospital trains, hospital ships and the evacuation hospitals."

HOUSE TO VOTE ON DOMESTIC MEASURES

Washington, December 5.—An informal understanding for a vote in the House on nation-wide woman suffrage and nation-wide prohibition constitutional amendment bills on December 19 and 20 respectively, was reached today between House leaders.

Most of the members of both houses are in accord with the president's desire that congress concentrate its efforts during this session upon war legislation, but in the House particularly, there is an insistent demand for action upon some general domestic measures including the prohibition and suffrage amendments before the Christmas holiday recess.

The House Judiciary committee meets next Tuesday to vote on both resolutions and is expected to report them promptly.

New York, December 5.—A quarter of a billion dollars worth of coal, or about 10 per cent of the quantity burned for steam production, might be saved annually in the United States by the employment of proper operating methods in boiler plants, David Moffat Myers of this city declared today at the annual meeting of the American society of mechanical engineers.

ELKS GIVE WAR HOSPITAL

Will Spend Quarter of a Million for the Reconstruction of Maimed and Wounded—Accepted by Government—Occupational Instruction to Go Hand in Hand With Physical Rehabilitation.

(Reprinted from The New York Times of Friday, November 9, 1917.)

The Elks' War Relief Commission announced last night that the Government had accepted a gift of $250,000 from the Elks to provide a great reconstruction hospital—the first in the United States—where maimed and disabled American soldiers and sailors may receive the best of expert attention and occupational instruction. The statement issued last night from the New York office of the commission, 149 Broadway, reads in part as follows:

"This first reconstruction hospital, where our soldiers will be re-educated in occupations which will best fit them not to become a burden to society, will be erected in Boston. It will consist of a complete unit of twin ward hospital buildings, vocational workshops, barracks, mess hall, and post exchange. This was definitely decided upon today at a meeting of the Elks' War Relief Commission, composed of John K. Tener, Chairman; Joseph T. Fanning, Secretary; Jerome B. Fisher, James R. Nicholson, Edward Righter, and Fred Harper, Grand Exalted Ruler, following a conference with Surgeon-General Corgan.

The site will be on Parker Hill, Boston, contiguous to the Robert Brigham Hospital. The institution will serve as the model, the standard-maker, for similar plants to be established throughout the United States. The buildings will be thoroughly modern in architecture, light and cheerful, and will have a well-trained and especially efficient professional staff."

Ex-Governor Tener, Chairman of the Elks' War Relief Commission, said:

"In the beginning of the war, except for Germany, the nations, in the conservation of their men, conducted their work upon the lines that had held in all previous wars. Disease was to be prevented so far as possible and the treatment of the wounded consisted in saving life, with the expectation that discharge from the army with some sort of pension would be the future, if any permanent impairment of function remained. No medical or surgical thought apart from the saving of life was given or considered necessary.

"Within a few months, however, it became evident that the mere saving of life, unless it was followed by or associated with attempts to restore function to the damaged part, represented a waste that was so great that the very existence of the nation was jeopardized. Associated with this, the pathetic condition in which most of these young men were placed, with the greater part of their lives to live bound by their physical handicap, was too overwhelming not to make it obvious that something more than life-saving was called for."

"The Government officials are particularly grateful to the Elks for this magnificent gift, which will tend to minimize the suffering and disabilities caused by the war," said Major Elliot G. Brackett, Director of Military Orthopedics, with headquarters in the Surgeon General's office. "It is a fine thing for the nation and is of incalculable consequence from the standpoint of happiness of the soldier. The need of this same rehabilitative work as a factor in solving our civil and industrial problem has been evident for some time, and already attempts have been made to meet the need through the establishment of such work. It will result in one of the lasting contributions which can come out of the disasters of this war," added Dr. Brackett.

9 ARE DEAD IN BLAST; GERMAN PLOT ALLEGED

Pittsburg, December 5.—Nine men were killed, two are missing, and more than twenty-five were injured, many of them seriously late today by an explosion that wrecked the "The F. N. T." plant of the Aetna Chemical Company, at Heidelberg. The explosion did damage estimated at $250,000 to the plant and shattered windows in factories and homes for a radius of nearly two miles. All of the dead and injured are employees of the company.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined. It occurred in the drying department in one of the eight 18,000 gallon tanks in which trinitrotoluenol, a powerful explosive, was being holed.

Many of those injured owe their lives to prompt medical aid which was summoned by Grace Lyons, a telephone operator, who stayed at her "whiteboard in the rear of the wrecked plant and telephoned hospitals and physicians.

The bodies of five of the workmen killed have been identified.

The first explosion occurred at 3:12 o'clock just few minutes after Paul Hill, the superintendent of the drying department, had made an inspection. There were fifteen men working near the tank at the time. As Hill turned to walk away the tank exploded. Hill was burned and bruised by the explosion but not seriously injured. Seven of the eight large tanks in the plant were blown out through the steel roofing.

The building which was of brick, one story in height and 350 feet by 100 feet, was completely wrecked by the explosion.

No sooner was the explosion over than employees who had escaped injury, rushed into the debris to remove the dead and injured, despite the fact that a rain of acid burned through their clothes and into the skin. Many of the bodies were charred, some beyond recognition.

Coroner Samuel C. Jamison, detectives and assistants arrived on the scene shortly after the explosion. It was stated tonight that a thorough investigation will be made as there is a suspicion that the explosion was planned by German agents.

The plant had just begun work on a government order for 18,000,000 pounds of "T. N. T." is said, and additions were being made to the new plant in order to facilitate the work. Most of the workmen are said to have been on twelve hour shifts.

It is said that about two weeks ago officials of the company were warned by a Pittsburg detective that a German sympathizer was going to apply for a position in the plant. A description of the man is said to have been furnished the company and it is claimed that a man answering the description applied for work a week later. Officials refuse to say whether the man suspected was given work.

ABSTINENCE FROM MEAT AND WHEAT

Chicago, December 4.—Abolition of wheatless and meatless days was recommended to the Food Administration today by State Live Stock Associations in the Middle West which met here with Joseph P. Colton, Meat Administrator.

Members of the associations agreed with Arthur Meeker, of Armour & Co., that the abstinence from eating wheat and meat products on specific days was an unnecessary sacrifice. Mr. Meeker declared that shortage exists now only in the supply of pork. He said stocks of beef were piling up in the coolers of packing houses and that there was an adequate supply of beef and mutton on hand to meet all demands without decrease of domestic consumption.

It was said that exports of beef had not increased greatly during the war. A decrease in the use of pork and its products, however, was urged.

The association's representatives adopted resolutions agreeing to cooperate with the Government in any way possible to aid in the stabilization of the live stock industry during the war.

GERMAN FLIERS

Penetrate Defenses of British Capital, But Two of Them Are Forced Down and Crews Are Captured.

London, December 6—Twenty-five enemy aeroplanes made five simultaneous bombing attacks on Kent and London early today, Lord French announced.

Two of five or six machines which penetrated defenses and bombarded the central city were forced to land and their crews were taken alive.

The planes also flew over Kent, dropping bombs.

The enemy raiders came early in the morning, according to an official statement issued by Lord French, commander-in-chief of home forces. The aeroplanes were all clearly audible. A heavy barrage was put up over London against them.

Two and a half hours elapsed between the first warning and the "all clear" signal announcing the end of the raid.

According to the official statement, the first group of the sky-killers was sighted over Kent at 1:30 this morning. Bombs were dropped by these machines at various places.

The second group put in an appearance at 3 a. m., and proceeded up the River Thames, also into Kent. Between 4 and 4:30 o'clock two more groups crossed Essex.

These joined with the three groups which had passed over Kent, and the machines, in a converging column, started toward London.

Lord French announced that the captured crews of the two German machines brought down included three men for each plane.

Search Made For Lost U. S. Soldiers
American Field Headquarters, France, December 6—Search was begun of British front hospitals today, with the hope of finding some of the missing American army engineers caught in the German advance around Cambrai.

Until this is completed, headquarters probably will not issue any official statement of the casualties.

It was announced semi-officially today that at least four officers and 280 men of the American army engineer detachment were in the thick of the Cambrai fighting.

This was a party caught in an enemy barrage at Gouzeaucourt. Some of them joined nearby British units, and all day long Friday fought with the Tommies.

The remainder attempted retirement under artillery, machine gun and aeroplane fire. A majority of the whole, it was stated, reached their base camp at Fins.

Still others took refuge in dugouts and were captured. Some of the captives escaped and rejoined the British. A scattering few made their way back to the American base.

British Forced to Surrender Ground
London, December 6—British lines southwest of Lavalquerie were "advanced slightly," Field Marshal Haig reported today.

The British commander-in-chief announced another withdrawal, "for a short distance," of British troops from a salient in the neighborhood of Royelles Sur Lescaut and Bourlon Wood. The move was accomplished without interference from the enemy.

Italy Is Gladdened By War on Austria
Rome, December 6—Italy is overjoyed that America is to declare war on Austria-Hungary.

A nation-wide demonstration of gratitude for America was being planned today.

News of President Wilson's recommendation to Congress, transmitted immediately to Italian soldiers at the front, has been sent by them to the enemy.

trenches so that Austrians opposite might read. Italian aviators dropped hastily printed messages by the thousands over the Austrian lines, informing them of America's decision. A notable celebration is being planned in Milan to mark that city's gratitude to America.

Rome also was planning a demonstration of students and civilians today. It already has been decided here to serenade Thomas Nelson Page, American ambassador.

America's decision to make war on Germany's chief ally was hailed by officials as certain vigorously to improve the morale of the Italian armies and to strengthen immeasurably Italian-American understanding.
